The Customer Service Team

The customer service team provides excellent service from the first point of contact to ensure the team and pet owner can find relief for the pet together.

88% of pet owners have tried up to 15 at-home itch treatments before bringing their dog to the clinic!

Remind pet owners that APOQUEL® (oclacinib tablet) is part of Zoetis Petcare Rewards

Display Answering the Call for Itchy Dogs at the front desk as a guide to the initial client call

Alert pet owners when it’s time for their dog’s next injection of CYTOPOINT® with CYTOPINTMENTS

Watch Know the True Cost videos to see how the ineffectiveness of steroids and antihistamines may affect the practice and pet owners
The Practice Manager

The practice manager understands the role that the treatment of itchy dogs can play in increasing practice profitability and maximizing business opportunities. They work with the veterinarian and staff to establish best practices.

8.9M allergic dogs do not go to the veterinarian for itch, losing the opportunity to provide effective treatment²

The Technician

The technician ensures a successful pet and pet owner exam room experience, provides pet owner education and supports the veterinarian throughout the diagnostic workup. They support the veterinarian in obtaining and interpreting diagnostic samples from the skin and ears.

Itchy dog visits have increased 50% since 2013

The Technician

- Learn practical skills and techniques needed during the diagnostic workup with the free NAVTA CE: Dermatology Diagnostics for Technicians course
- Use the Lifestyle Patient Intake form—including the cheat sheet—to gather a detailed history, including signs of allergic itch
- Have the pet owner complete the Signs of an Itchy Dog form while waiting for the exam
- Teach pet owners how to use the Itch Tracker between appointments
- Set expectations and educate pet owners on the signs of a flare with Prepare for the Flare
The Veterinarian

The veterinarian practices best medicine to provide real relief and protect the bonds that matter most. Building trust with the pet owner, as well as educating the team on dermatology, ensures that the practice provides the best possible short- and long-term care.

Skin allergies are the #1 REASON for canine veterinary visits

Display an Approach to the Itchy Dog exam room poster to educate your clients on the diagnostic workup for an itchy dog

Use the Itch Tracker as a guide for your next itchy dog exam

Set expectations and educate pet owners on the signs of a flare with Prepare for the Flare

Watch Know the True Cost videos to learn more about the drawbacks of prescribing steroids and antihistamines for the treatment of allergic itch

Guide your clients through CYTOPOINT® treatment and ensure compliance with a CYTOPLAN

RESOURCES
HAVE AN ITCHY DOG?

Frequent scratching is one sign of allergic itch, but there are other telltale signs as well:

- Frequent licking, chewing, biting or scratching
- Excessive rolling, rubbing or scooting
- Recurrent ear problems (head shaking, ear discharge/odor or scratching at ears)
- Hair loss
- Body odor
- Skin changes (rash, redness, greasy skin or scabs)

The more we know about itch, the better informed we’ll be to treat it. Sharing your dog’s itch history is critical to uncovering the underlying cause of itch and the proper course of action.

- Where is your dog itchy?
- How itchy is your dog on a scale of 0-100 (0 indicating a normal dog and 100 indicating extremely severe itching)?
- How long and how often has your dog been itchy? Are there certain times of the year your dog is itchy (duration, seasonality, etc)?
- What have you already tried to relieve the itch?
- What are you using for flea control?

ITCH OBSERVATIONS (TO SHARE WITH VETERINARIAN)
ANSWERING THE CALL FOR ITCHY DOGS—THEY’RE COUNTING ON US

Every phone call presents an opportunity to demonstrate great client service. In order to provide itchy dogs with the relief they need and help protect the bonds that matter most, an exam is necessary.

Recognize and validate the client’s concern about their itchy dog:

“Mrs Smith, I know we both want relief for Max as soon as possible.”

Ask all clients with itchy dogs to schedule an appointment:

“Let’s get Max scheduled for Dr Green’s first available appointment so we can find out why he is so itchy.”

If the client objects to coming in for an appointment:

“There are several causes of itch, and the exam will help us to find the reason behind the itch and provide proper treatment for Max.”

If the client asks for a solution over the phone:

“I wish I could provide helpful advice to you over the phone; however, an exam is necessary. Over-the-counter products are rarely effective for itch, and they might represent just one part of a potential treatment plan. Without seeing Max, we cannot make a proper determination of the best approach to his care, and we run the risk of delaying relief. We really want to get to the root cause of Max’s itch as soon as possible.”

PRACTICE TALKING POINTS

[When booking appointments, consider communicating the duration of exams with pet owners to help set expectations.]
PREPARE FOR A FLARE OF ITCH

Allergic dermatitis requires lifelong management—even when controlled, occasional flares can occur—especially for seasonally affected dogs. Fleas and infections may exacerbate flares of allergic itch.

If you suspect a flare, contact the practice to schedule an exam for your dog to be seen

Partner with your veterinarian to understand the cause of the flare

Do not stop anti-itch treatment for your dog during the flare

Additional treatment may be needed to provide relief after a flare of allergic itch

Successful long-term management of allergic dogs also includes year-round flea prevention and careful monitoring of any skin infections.
